INFORMATION MANAGEMENT

Organize & optimize your information assets for higher productivity

Organizations are flooded with information. How do you effectively organize documents and files as they relate to your email messages, application systems and physical records? How do you ensure the information isn't lost over time and is available to support critical decisions and enable efficient business processes? What is the governance strategy that can reduce redundancy and mitigate legal and regulatory risks? In addition to growing information stores, there are also important external resources that your team needs to do their job. How do you cost effectively negotiate and license external information and then effectively integrate it with your organization's content for easy access, collaboration and dissemination? How can new technologies be objectively evaluated and integrated into your enterprise architecture while fully leveraging existing solutions in which you're invested?

Powermatla ICT can help when your organization isn't ready to hire a full-time employee with this specialized expertise or doesn't want to rely on a consultant's individual experience. Get our information management consulting team working for you, right away.
